

100 CLUB FOR RELIGIOUS VOCATIONS

*“Pray, therefore, that the Lord of the harvest may send laborers to gather in the harvest.”
Matthew 9:38*

The 100 Club for Religious Vocations is a not-for profit corporation established with the support of Archbishop Michael J. Sheehan, Archbishop of Santa Fe, to provide financial assistance to men who are studying for vocations to the priesthood.

While the Archdiocese provides tuition and living expenses in these circumstances, and students’ families and students themselves provide other needed essentials, there are times when funds are lacking and when emergencies arise. It is for these situations, and also as a small monthly stipend to those who need it, that the funds of the 100 Club are intended. Considering the drastic need for priests in our Archdiocese, these men need our strong support and encouragement.

The funds of the 100 Club are raised by annual membership dues. There are three classes of membership, $100 (Bronze); $150 (Silver) or $200 (Gold) per year to the 100 Club For Religious Vocations.

There are no other responsibilities of membership, no monthly meetings or committee assignments, etc. An annual dinner meeting of the members is held in the autumn of each year, with the Archbishop, to report on the services provided and the forthcoming needs of the program, and to update the status of vocations for our Church.

If you are interested in helping to support vocations, please send your name and address for more information (and, if you so choose, your check) to:
